Index

A

acceptance, of risk, 227 acceptance criteria, developing, 297–298 acceptance test driven development (ATDD), 324–325 accessibility, as a nonfunctional requirement, 96 account manager, 40
action items (tasks), 149, 295 active listening, 52–53 actors, 105–106, 305, 306, 308 affinity diagrams, 382–383 agents, external, as core component, 105–106 Agile environment
  business analysis in, 16–21 change management in, 83
  elicitation in, 124–125
  requirements in, 277–279 testing in, 325
  transition planning in, 352–353 work plan in, 238–240, 257–258
Agile Project Management For Dummies (Layton, Ostermiller, and Kynaston), 258, 320 agility, as a business driver category, 215 agreement, getting on scope, 230 alternate path, in use case description, 309 Analysis phase, in waterfall approach, 257 analysis techniques
  about, 281–282
  data flow diagrams, 218–223, 282–284
  decision tables, 299–300
  developing acceptance criteria, 297–298 entity relationship diagram (ERD), 285–289 external interaction textual templates, 282, 284–285 process decomposition diagrams, 291–294
  prototyping, 74–75, 158–160, 311–317
  story maps, 294–297
  use case models, 305–311 user stories, 72–73, 295, 318–320 using data mapping for system interfaces, 289–291 workflow diagrams, 300–305 annual maintenance costs, 80 ANSI flowchart, 301
application lifecycle management (ALM) tools, 72 approach to implement, 205, 338 approvals, in verification and validation test plan, 341 artifacts, in use case description, 310
as is state, 29, 200, 275 ask-the-user-first prompts, 108 associations, in use case diagrams, 307 assumptions, 205–206, 228 attributes, 103–104, 286 audience, 178–179, 189–190 authors, in formal reviews, 345 automation boundary, in use case diagrams, 306 availability, as an objective characteristic, 38 avoidance, of risk, 226

B

Babcock, Jonathan (senior manager), 382–383 background, in business case, 205 behavior-driven development (BDD), 381–382 benchmarking, 117
'big picture,' as a skill of successful business analysts, 14–15 bottom-up method, for creating decomposition diagrams, 293 brainstorming
  about, 118, 141–142
  Crazy 8s, 142
  Edward de Bono's Six Thinking Hats, 144–145
  mind mapping, 143
  reverse, 143–144
brand, as a business driver category, 215 Brounstein, Marty (author), 53 budgets, managing challenges with, 80–81 build verification test, 326
Busby, Greg (Principal), 388–389
Bush, George H. W. (US president), 389 business analysis
  about, 7–8
  in Agile environment, 16–21
  certifications, 23
  International Institute of Business Analysis (IIBA) Guide to the Business Analysis: Body of Knowledge (BABOK Guide), 22
  levels of, 25–36
  role in lifecycle, 9–11
  as a skill of successful business analysts, 14 skills for, 363–369
  using techniques at home, 369 value of, 11–13
Business analysis planning and monitoring knowledge area, 22

COPYRIGHTED MATERIAL

Business Analysis Planning Framework, 238, 239 business analysis professional. See business analyst (BA) business analyst (BA), 2, 13–16 business case
  about, 187
  basics of, 187–191
  benefits of, 188
  as a business analysis skill used at home, 369
  cost-benefit analysis, 197–203
  defined, 29
  description, 195
  executive summary, 191–193
  identifying alternative solutions, 196–197 knowing your audience, 189–190 mission statement, 193–195 presenting, 207
  structure, 190–191
  supporting materials, 204–206
business data analytics projects, 243–245 business drivers, 192, 213–216 business features, 387
business needs, 29, 86–88, 162–165
Business Process Modeling Notation (BPMN), 301 business processes/activities documentation, 269 business requirements, 92, 269, 342 business requirements document (BRD), 132 business risks, 226, 250
business rules, 106–108, 132, 269
buy-in, gaining, 58

C

capability needs, 86–88 captioned telephone, teletypewriter (TTY), 66 cardinality, 104, 108, 286
Carville, James, 389
cash flow, 199
categories, for solution requirements, 95–96 certifications, for business analysis, 23 change management, 17, 82, 83, 232–233 change-driven approach, 277–278 characteristics, of objectives, 38–39 chat tools, 64
Cheat Sheet (website), 4 circles, in data flow diagrams, 283
Claycomb, Kathy (instructor), 386–387
Clinton, Bill (US president), 389 closed surveys, 133
CNN.com, 329
Cockburn, Alistair (author), 305 collaboration
  about, 377
  games for, 118, 153–154
  platforms for, 65
  tools for, 67–69
  as a value in Agile environment, 17 collaborative techniques
  about, 139
  brainstorming techniques, 141–145 collaborative games, 153–154
  customer journey, 151–153
  focus groups, 149–150
  interviews, 139–141
  requirements workshops, 145–149
  using personas for empathy, 150–151 collocated, 257
commercial off-the-shelf (COTS) tool, 39, 158, 226, 242 Communicating Effectively For Dummies (Brounstein), 53 communication
  barriers to effective, 53–54
  as a business analysis skill used at home, 369 improving within team, 13 managing in virtual and hybrid environments, 54–55 mode of, as an objective characteristic, 38
  as a skill of successful business analysts, 13–14
  with stakeholders, 49–56
  tools for, 64–67
  verbal compared with nonverbal, 55–56 compatibility, documenting, 273 competence, of stakeholders, 351–352 competitive analysis, 137–138
complete requirement, 99 complexity, project, 251 compliance, as a business driver category, 215 configuration test, 329 conflict, 59–60, 94
consensus, generating, 58
constraints, project, 228 context level data flow diagram. See scope diagrams Context Level Data Flow Diagram, 218–223 contingencies, in verification and validation test plan, 341 continuous improvement, as a value in Agile environment, 16 core components
  about, 102
  business rules, 106–108
  data, 102–105
  external agents and actors, 105–106 process (use cases), 105 core team, 376–377
correct requirement, 99–100

costs and benefits, 173–174, 197–203, 214
Cox, Ali (instructor), 380–382
Crazy 8s, 142
culture, of stakeholders, 253
current situation and opportunity, in business case, 192 curved lines, in data flow diagrams, 283
customer journey, 151–153
customer satisfaction, increasing, 13 customer service, as a business driver category, 214 customer-facing application, 45 customer-focused perspective, as a skill of successful business analysts, 15

D

daily Scrum, 20
data, 102–105, 349
data administrator, 46
data analytics, methods for, 244–245 data definition, documenting, 270 data dictionary, 314
data flow diagrams, 218–223, 282–284
data mapping, using for system interfaces, 289–291 data migration, as a transition requirement, 275
data mining, 118, 138–139
data modeling, 384–385
data warehouse projects, 245–246 database administrator (DBA), 46 Database Development For Dummies (Taylor), 288 de Bono, Edward, 144–145
decision tables, 299–300
decision-making, 39, 253
decomp, 291–294
Definition of Done, 83
definition tools, 72–75 deliverables, 228–229, 237 descriptive analysis, 138, 244 design, 96, 270
Design phase, in waterfall approach, 257 detail design, in requirements review, 342 detailed acceptance criteria, 298 developers, 19
Development phase, in waterfall approach, 257 diagnostic analysis, 138, 244
diagramming tools, 73–74 distribution costs, 80
document analysis
  about, 117, 128
  benefits of, 128–129
  examples of, 129–133
  forms, 131
  legal documents, 132
  letters, 130
  offerings, 130
  procedure manuals, 132
  reports, 130
  requirements documents, 132–133
  screen layouts, 131
  system documentation, 132–133
  training materials, 132
  websites, 130
documentation, 96, 268–275 domain subject matter experts (domain SMEs), 41–42, 51 duplicate solutions, reducing, 13 dynamic requirements, 258 dynamic test, 328–329

E

Eckman, Hans (manager), 379–380
Eisenhower, Dwight, 237 electronic places, for collaboration, 68–69 electronic tools, 80
elicitation, 122–125
Elicitation and collaboration knowledge area, 22 email, as a communication tool, 65 emotion commitment, of stakeholders, 253 empathy, using personas for, 150–151 enterprise level, of business analysis, 26, 28–29 entities, 103, 285–286
entity relationship diagrams (ERDs)
  about, 285–288
  creating, 287–288
  entity relationship text templates, 288
  entity text templates, 288–289
entity relationship text templates, 288
entity text templates, 288–289
environmental needs, in verification and validation test plan, 339 epics, 295
estimation, 11, 199–200 event-driven method, for creating decomposition diagrams, 293 event-type place, 68
evidence of need, in business case, 205 evolutionary changes, 246
evolutionary prototypes, 159 excellent requirements, 99–102 exception path, in use case description, 310 executive sponsors, 39–40, 50–51 executive summary, in business case, 191–193 expectations, setting, 11 experience, as an objective characteristic, 38 experimental techniques, 154–160 extent, of story maps, 296–297 external agents, 105–106, 282, 349 external interaction textual template, 282, 284–285

F

face-to-face collaboration, 68 facilitated work sessions, 118, 385–386 facilitated workshops. See requirements workshops facilitation, as a business analysis skill used at home, 369 facilitators, in formal reviews, 345 feasibility studies, 33 feasible requirement, 101 features, 153, 295, 337
Federal Communications Committee (FCC), 44 finances, terminology and metrics for, 198–199 flexibility, as a skill of successful business analysts, 16
focus groups, 118, 149–150
formal reviews, 345–346 formal training, for honing business analysis skills, 366 formality level, as an objective characteristic, 38
forms, 131
frameworks, 19–21, 238
fulfillment time, as a business driver category, 215–216 functional decomposition diagram, 388–389 functional requirements, 95–96, 270–272 functional requirements document (FRD), 133 future, of companies, 163

G

Geographic diagrams, 301
goals, 8, 12, 59, 193
good problems, 169–170
goodwill, 198
Grace, Robin (consultant), 383–384
graphs, mockups for, 317
Guide to the Business Analysis: Body of Knowledge (BABOK Guide), 22
A Guide to the Project Management Book of Knowledge, 7th Edition (PMBOK 7), 226–227
Gygi, Craig (author), 301

H

happy path, in use case description, 309 hardware costs, 80
hardware interfaces, 217–218
heuristics, 331
high-fidelity simulation, 313
high-level processes, documenting, 228 how
  "how" questions, 115–116
  what compared with, 91–92 human factors engineering, 315 hybrid environments, managing communication in, 54–55

I

icons, explained, 3–4
implementation costs, 202–203
Implementation phase, in waterfall approach, 257 implementation subject matter experts (implementation SMEs), 42–43 improvement needs, 86–88 increase revenue, avoid costs, improve service (IRACIS), 87 incremental planning, 239 incremental/iterative delivery, as a value in Agile environment, 17 informal reviews, 345
information
  sources of, 116–117
  in transition requirements, 349 information architecture, as a nonfunctional requirement, 96 information capacity, as a nonfunctional requirement, 96 information needs documentation, 269 information organization, as a skill of successful business analysts, 14 infrastructure projects, 246–247 initial acceptance criteria, 298 innovation and idea capture tools, 70–72 installation costs, 80
installation test, 329
instant messaging tools, 64
intangible costs and benefits, 198 integration test, 327
interface agreements, 133
interface analysis, 118, 135–136 interfaces,1 35, 216–218, 250 internal support costs, 81
International Institute of Business Analysis (IIBA), 22, 23
interviews, 118, 139–141
introduction, in verification and validation test plan, 337
IT projects, 246–247
item pass/fail criteria, in verification and validation test plan, 338–339 iterations, 295–296, 318 iterative planning, 239, 258, 336

J

Joint Application Development (JAD) sessions. See requirements workshops

K

key performance indicators (KPIs), in business case, 194–195 Kupersmith, Jonathan "Kupe," 12, 13, 389–390
Kynaston, Dean J. (author), 258, 320

L

language, 120–122, 253
Layton, Mark C. (author), 258, 320
Lean Kanban, 21
legacy systems, 136
legal documents, 132
LEGO Serious Play (LSP), 153–154
lessons-learned session, 334
letters, 130
levels, business analysis, 25–36
licensing costs, 80
lifecycle, of business analysis, 9–11 list of tasks, in work plan, 237 listening tools, 71
Little, Todd (author), 320 localization, documenting, 274 logical data, 290
low-fidelity simulation, 313
lunching, for honing business analysis skills, 367–368

M

main flow, in use case description, 309 maintainability, documenting, 274 Maintenance phase, in waterfall approach, 257 management, 39–41
market analysis, 117, 163
market reach, as a business driver category, 216 Maslow, Abraham (psychologist), 15
McDonald, Kent (author), 320
McMenamin, Stephen M., 282 measurements, documenting, 275 mentoring, for honing business analysis skills, 365 meta data, 73
metrics, 198–199, 275
mind mapping, 140–141, 143
mission statement, in business case, 193–195 missions, analyzing, 162–163 mitigation, of risk, 227 mockups. See prototyping modeling tools, 73–74
Morris, David (consultant), 384–385 motivation, of stakeholders, 350–351

N

necessary requirement, 100–101 needs
  about, 161
  creating problem statement, 174–175 creating solution position statement, 175–177
  defining, 85–89
  evaluating, 169–174
  evaluating solutions, 177–179
  getting clear objectives, 179–183 investigating, 161–167
  root cause, 167–169
net impact to ongoing operations, 199 networking, for honing business analysis skills, 364–365 Nickolaisen, Niel (author), 320 nonfunctional requirements, 96, 272–275 nonverbal messages, 55–56

O

objectives
  aligning projects with, 12 characteristics of, 38–39
  creating common, 59
  getting clear, 179–183
  SMART, 182–183, 225
observation, 118, 154–157
obstacles, 163–165
offerings, 130
offshore development projects, 242–243 ongoing costs/benefits, 200–202 open-ended questions, 122, 140 open-ended surveys, 133 operating costs/benefits, 200–202 operational level, of business analysis, 26, 32–34 operations, solutions and, 358–359 opportunities, 225, 251 opportunity costs, 81
optional rules, 108
organization change management professional, 44 organizational level, of business analysis, 26, 30–32 organizations, assessing readiness of for transition, 349–350 Ostermiller, Steven J. (author), 258, 320 outsourced development projects, 242–243 overengineering, 79

P

Palmer, John F., 282
paper prototyping, 159
parallel processing, 354
paraphrasing, 140
parking lot, 147–148
participants, 38–46, 146, 344–346 path, in use case description, 309–310 payback period, 199
peer networking, for honing business analysis skills, 364–365 peer reviews, 346, 365
Pena, Russ (vice president), 387–388 people, 238, 239, 251–252 people-related impacts, 202 people-related implementation costs, 203

performance, 96, 272 performance test, 328
performance-related questions, 165 personas, using for empathy, 150–151 phone calls, tools for, 64 physical data, 290
physical location, 38, 68
piloting, 354–355
Pixton, Pollyanna (author), 320 plan to implement, in business case, 205 plan-driven approach, 277–278 Planning phase, in waterfall approach, 257 platinum rule, 252
portability, documenting, 274 postal mail, as a communication tool, 65 postconditions, in use case description, 309 post-implementation user assessment, 334, 343 preconditions, in use case description, 308–309 predictive analytics, 139, 244 preparation, for new projects, 371–377 prescriptive analytics, 139, 245 presenting, for honing business analysis skills, 366–367 primary path, in use case description, 309 prioritized requirement, 101–102 probability, of risk, 227 problem evaluation
  about, 169, 251
  determining impact of problems, 172 determining importance of problems, 170–172 establishing costs and benefits, 173–174
  good problems, 169–170
problem statement, 174–175, 204 problems, articulating, 225 problem-sufferers, 173
procedure manuals, 132
process change costs, 203
process decomposition diagrams, 291–294 process improvement projects, 246 Process One Pager, 383–384 process(es)
  about, 109–110
  of business analysis, 8
  in Business Analysis Planning Framework, 238, 239 choosing an approach, 117–120
  as core component, 105
  documenting, 294
  elicitation in Agile teams, 124–125 eliciting questions, 110–117 planning elicitation sessions, 122–124
  in transition requirements, 349
  using clear, consistent language, 120–122 in work plan, 255–258
process-related impacts, 200–201 product backlog, 21
product box, 153
product manager, 40
product owner, 19
program walkthrough, in requirements review, 343 project approach/methodology, 224–225 project assumptions, 228 project characteristics, in Business Analysis Planning Framework, 238, 239, 240–251 project charter, 223
project complexity, 251 project constraints, 228 project defects, reducing, 12 project initiation documentation, 223–229, 269 project level, of business analysis, 26, 34–36 project manager (PM), 40–41 project objectives, 225 project risks, 226
project support person (PSP), 43 project support personnel, 43–44, 51–52 projects
  organizing with agile frameworks, 19–21 preparing for new, 371–377 size of, 248–250
  types of, 240–248
project-specific questions, for stakeholders, 211–212
prototyping
  about, 118–119, 157–158, 311–317
  basics of, 314–315
  creating, 315–317
  evolutionary prototypes, 159
  for graphs, 317
  for reports, 317
  simulation prototypes, 160
  throwaway prototypes, 158–159
  tools for, 74–75
pseudo-code, 75
public broadcast television/radio, 65

Q

quality assurance (QA) personnel, 46 questions, 110–117

R

readers, in formal reviews, 346 reading, for honing business analysis skills, 367 recommendation description, in business case, 192 recommendations, justifying in business case, 195–203

recorders, in formal reviews, 345 recording, as a skill of successful business analysts, 14 rectangular boxes, in data flow diagrams, 283 reengineering, 246
regression test, 328
regulators, 44
relationships
  data and, 104–105
  defined, 286
  fostering strong, 56–60
  between stakeholders, 253
releases, building story maps based on, 295–296 reliability, 96, 273
Remember icon, 3
reports, 130, 317
repository-type place, 68
requirements
  about, 85, 265–266
  agile projects and, 277–279
  as a business analysis skill used at home, 369
  categorizing, 266–268
  core components, 102–108
  defining, 85–98
  documenting, 268–275
  excellent, 99–102
  reusing, 13
  traceability of, 276–277
Requirements analysis and resign definition knowledge area, 22 requirements documents, 132–133
Requirements lifecycle management knowledge area, 22 requirements management tools, 75–77 requirements package, 335 requirements review, conducting, 342–346 requirements traceability, 387–388 requirements validation test, 328
requirements workshops
  about, 118, 145–146
  identifying participants, 146 managing sessions, 147–149 scheduling, 146–147
research, as a skill of successful business analysts, 14 research-based techniques
  about, 128
  competitive analysis, 137–138
  data mining, 138–139
  document analysis, 128–133
  interface analysis, 135–136
  reverse engineering, 136–137
  surveys, 133–134
respect, building, 57
Responsible, Accountable, Consulted, and Informed (RACI) matrix, 47–49, 229 return on investment (ROI), 199 revenue, as a business driver category, 214 reverse brainstorming, 143–144
reverse engineering, 119, 136–137 reviewers, additional, in formal reviews, 346 revolutionary changes, 246 risk acceptance, 227
risk avoidance, 226
risk factors, 227
risk mitigation, 227
risk responses, 226–227
risk transfer, 226–227
risks
  documenting in business case, 206 outlining, 226–227
  probability of, 227
  in verification and validation test plan, 341 roles and responsibilities, 340, 376 rollout plans, 356–358
root cause analysis, 167–169, 386–387 rotating domains/applications, for honing business analysis skills, 368
Ruth, Shelley (business analyst), 385–386

S

scalability, documenting, 274 schedule, in verification and validation test plan, 340–341 scope
  about, 209–210
  alignment with key business drivers, 213–216 avoiding scope creep, 231–233 clarifying using project initiation documentation, 223–229 defining with data flow diagrams, 218–223 getting agreement on, 230 identifying interfaces, 216–218 solutions and, 210–211
  stakeholders and, 211–213
  what isn't included, 229–230 scope creep, 12, 231–233 scope diagrams, 133, 380–381
screen layouts, 131
screenshots. See prototyping
Scrum, 19–21
Scrum master, 19
SDLC, phases of, 330–334
security, 96, 272–273
security test, 329
silos, 212
simulation prototypes, 160, 312
simulation tools, 74–75 single cutover approach, 355–356 single-value field, 104
Six Sigma For Dummies, 2nd Edition (Gygi and Williams), 301
Six Thinking Hats, 144–145 skills, 13–16, 363–369
SMART objectives, 182–183, 193–194, 225

smoke test, 326
snail mail, as a communication tool, 65 social media, for honing business analysis skills, 363–364 social networking tools, 65 software enhancement/maintenance projects, 241–242 software requirements, in requirements review, 342 solution approach, 29
Solution evaluation knowledge area, 22 solution position statement, 175–177, 204–205 solution requirements, 94–96, 270–275 solution scope, 29
solution-providers, 173
solutions
  audience considerations, 178–179
  getting clear objectives, 179–183
  identifying and prioritizing alternative in business case, 196–197 scope and, 210–211
  validating value of, 177–178 verifying and validating (See verifying and validating) sources of information, identifying, 116–117 specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and time-bound (SMART) objectives, 182–183, 193–194, 225 sponsor, 223
sprint, 20
sprint backlog, 21
Sprint planning, 20
sprint retrospective, 20
sprint review, 20
staffing needs, in verification and validation test plan, 340 stakeholder analysis, identifying stakeholder requirements using, 93–94 stakeholder communication plan, in work plan, 237, 251–255 stakeholder needs, 86, 88–89, 166–167 stakeholder requirements, 93–94, 269 stakeholders
  about, 37
  communicating with, 49–56
  competence of, 351–352
  finding, 47
  fostering strong relationships, 56–60 identifying, 46–49
  identifying participants, 38–46
  interviews for, 140
  involvement of, 254
  motivation of, 350–351
  relevancy of, 211–213
  in stakeholder communication plan, 252–253 Stand Back and Deliver (Pixton, Nickolaisen, Little, and McDonald), 320 statement of purpose, 223–224 storing requirements, for agile teams, 279
story maps, 294–297
story refinement, 20
storyboards, for prototyping, 312 storytelling, mockups for, 317 stovepipes, 212
strategic level, working at, 18 strategies, for transition, 353–356 Strategy analysis knowledge area, 22 stress test, 328–329
structure, of business cases, 190–191 subject matter experts (SMEs)
  about, 41–43
  as an objective characteristic, 38 targeting communication to, 51 subjective characteristics, of stakeholders, 252–253 sunk costs, 199
Supplier-Input-Process-Output-Customer (SIPOC), 301 supporting materials, in business case, 204–206
surveys
  about, 118, 133
  compiling and using data for, 134 maximizing response chances for, 134
  types of, 133–134
suspension and resumption criteria, in verification and validation test plan, 339 Swimlane, 301
system architecture, 133
system documentation, 132–133
system functionality, documenting, 270 system interfaces, 217, 289–291
system test, 327–329
system-related impacts, 202 system-related implementation costs, 203

T

tangible costs and benefits, 198 tasks. See action items (tasks) Taylor, Allen G. (author), 288 team level, working at, 18 team members, preparing for change, 81–83 technical personnel, 44–46, 52 technical requirements, documenting, 275 technical skill level, of stakeholders, 253 Technical Stuff icon, 3 technical team expertise, as an objective characteristic, 38 technical writer, 44
techniques
  about, 127–128
  collaborative, 139–154
  experimental, 154–160
  research-based, 128–139

technology engineers, 97 technology requirements, 97–98 telecommunications relay services (TRS), 66 terminology, for finances, 198–199 test cases, 335–336, 343 test data, in verification and validation test plan, 338 test items, in verification and validation test plan, 337 test plan, 335
test preparation, 335–341
testing, 322–325
Testing phase, in waterfall approach, 257 testing tasks, in verification and validation test plan, 339 text messaging tools, 64 textual definition tools, 72–73 the three pains approach, 379–380
throwaway prototypes, 158–159
tickets, 248
time management, as a skill of successful business analysts, 14 time to market, as a business driver category, 215 time/cost estimate, in work plan, 237 Tip icon, 3
title, in use case description, 308 to be state, 200, 275
tools
  about, 63–64
  collaboration, 67–69
  communication, 64–67
  definition, 72–75
  innovation and idea capture, 70–72 preparing team members for change, 81–83 requirements management, 75–77 selecting, 77–81
  as a skill of successful business analysts, 15
top-down method, for creating decomposition diagrams, 293 traceability, of requirements, 276–277 traceability matrix, 276–277 tracking tools, 72
traditional environments, 82, 238–240 traffic, directing, 148 training costs, 80
training materials, 132
training needs, in verification and validation test plan, 340 transfer, of risk, 226–227 transition
  about, 347
  components of rollout plan, 356–358
  operations, 358–359
  preparing for, 348–353
  smoothing to production, 12–13 strategy for, 353–356
transition requirements, 97, 275, 348 trust, building, 57, 58–59

U

UI specification, 316
UML Activity, 301
unambiguous requirement, 100 underlying competencies, 22 uniqueness, of attributes, 104
unit test, 326
usability, 96, 274
usability engineer, 45–46 usability test, 329, 331–333 use case description, 305, 308–311 use case diagram, 306–308
use case narrative, 305
use cases
  as core component, 105
  creating models for, 305–311
  in use case diagrams, 307 user acceptance test (UAT), 333 user classes, documenting, 270 user interface specification, 133 user interfaces, 216–217, 271
user stories
  about, 72–73, 318–319
  confirming, 320
  creating, 319–320
  levels of, 295
user training, as a transition requirement, 275

V

validating. See verifying and validating value
  of business analysis, 11–13
  delivery of, as a value in Agile environment, 17 to organization of stakeholders, 252 value-driven perspective, as a skill of successful business analysts, 15 verbal messages, 55–56
verifiable requirement, 100 verification and validation test plan, 337–341 verifying and validating
  about, 321, 322
  conducting requirements reviews, 342–346
  integration test, 327
  smoke test, 326
  system test, 327–329
  test preparation, 335–341
  testing basics, 322–325
  unit test, 326
  validation testing, 330–334
  verification testing, 325–329 video, as a communication tool, 65 video tools, 64
virtual environments, managing communication in, 54–55 vision statement, defining solution requirements using, 95 voicemail, as a communication tool, 64–65 volatility, 76–77

volume test, 329

W

Warning icon, 3
waterfall approach, 16, 256–257 web conferences, as a communication tool, 66 web development projects, 247–248 webinars, as a communication tool, 66
websites
  Cheat Sheet, 4
  document analysis and, 130
  International Institute of Business Analysis (IIBA), 23
what
  how compared with, 91–92
  "what" questions, 111
"when" questions, 114–115
"where" questions, 114
"who" questions, 112
"why" questions, 113
Williams, Bruce (author), 301
wireframes. See prototyping wireframing, 74
work breakdown structure (WBS), 40 work plan
  about, 235
  basics of, 236–240
  compiling, 258–261
  key components of, 237 process of, 255–258
  project characteristics, 240–251 stakeholder communication plan, 251–255 work sessions. See requirements workshops workflow diagrams (workflows), 300–305
Writing Effective Use Cases (Cockburn), 305